Gentlemen:

I admit I was skeptical to try yet another miracle remedy to close my stage two pressure wound; a wound that would disrupt my life for eight months before I learned about Helicoll.

In that eight months and under the care of the local hospital's wound care center, I tried Restore, Duoderm, Prisma, Medi-Honey and Miracle Mist Plus. Although some of these products did reduce the size of the wound, none of them ever actually closed it.

With the approval of my primary care physician, I tried Helicoll. Applying the Helicoll was easy for any caregiver or family member to do and since the treatment was good for 5-7 days, it eliminated trips to a physician or wound care center for application, thus reducing my medical costs.

The wound showed signs of improvement after just two applications and after using Helicoll for approximately seven weeks, the wound was completely closed. It has remained closed now for six weeks. The skin is healing so well that it is hard to see where the actual wound was.

Helicoll is the miracle cure! I would encourage anyone with a wound to skip all the other "miracle cures" and get their lives back again in record time.

Thank you for all your help and for answering all the questions that we had while using Helicoll. I hope that I never experience another pressure wound, but if I do, Helicoll will be the first and only treatment I will use.

Sincerely,

Barbara Crowley
